

BREAK UP BRONCHIAL COUGHS CROUP AND COLDS PROMPTLY

Make the Best Remedy at Home
—128 Teaspoonful for 50 Cents—

Don't neglect your first cold, cough or any Bronchial affection, this fall, but commence treatment immediately, and through using the proper medicine, it can be checked from the very start and promptly cured, but if neglected probably will hang on all winter; if it does not develop into something more serious, such as Pneumonia or Consumption. True, there are hundreds, yes thousands of cough remedies on the market. While some are good, there are many which are not, but are positively harmful, due to the narcotics which they contain. But why experiment with these different remedies purely on the strength perhaps of some testimonials or on the exaggerated claims of manufacturers, when Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant is sold by W. L. Gokay on such a positive guarantee to give perfect satisfaction, yes even more—money will be refunded by them if it is not found the best remedy ever used in Severe Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough or Croup, and it will also be found excellent for Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. Besides these druggists guaranteeing "that it will be the best remedy ever used," it will likewise be found the most economical, because one bottle (50 cents' worth) makes a full pint (128 teaspoonful) of the most excellent medicine for any of the above affections, when mixed at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water. It makes as much, or more, than would cost you $2.00 to $3.00 of almost any of the ordinary ready-made kinds, sold in bottles holding only 24 to 32 teaspoonful. You will be the sole judge yourself and under the same positively "Money Back" guarantee which the druggists make for the famous Asthmador. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy.

SLAUGHTER BEFORE DVINSK

German's Diary Tells of a Company Reduced from 285 to 70

Petrograd, Nov. 10, (via London.)

A notebook kept by a German soldier who was captured by the Russians in the sector to the south of Dvinsk shows how the ranks of his company had been reduced in a brief period, presumably by the effectiveness of the Russian artillery. According to the diary, the company was reduced within three days from 285 men to 70.

BENNINGTON BRIEFS

News of the Town and Village Told Briefly for Busy Readers

"Some Further Echoes" from the New Haven Meetings" will be the subject at the Congregational chapel service tonight.

The school trustees are changing the fire gongs in the high school building, putting in stronger ones. They are also installing a set of four electric gongs in the graded school as supplementary to the present system of hand gongs.

The girls' gymnasium class starts tonight at 8 o'clock at Library hall and girls interested in folk dancing, exercises, or athletic games, including basket ball, are invited to join the class which will be free of any charge.

There will be a special meeting of Bennington council, Knights of Columbus at their new rooms on Main street at 8 o'clock Friday evening. The meeting is called to confer the first degree on a class of candidates. The recently elected officers will be installed by District Deputy W. J. Loneragan and staff.

R. L. Brown of Pownal was in the village today for surgical treatment for an injured hand which became caught in a corn husker while he was at work Wednesday on the farm of William Morgan. The second finger was badly lacerated, the nail and part of the flesh being torn away. Had not Mr. Brown pulled his hand from the machine he would probably have lost his hand.

LINEN SHORTAGE ACUTE

Unions and All-Cotton Goods Replacing Linens for Household Use.

The linen situation shows no improvement. Reports from Irish sources are to the effect that the flax supply continues inadequate, with indications that the shortage will grow more acute in the near future. This, of course, affects the spinners, whose ability to produce yarns is limited partly by the flax supply and partly by the shortage of labor caused by the calling of many men to the colors.

As an example of the attitude of the manufacturer and his agent today we may cite the following incident, which occurred one day last week.

The head of a large chain of hotels, who spends approximately $100,000 per year for household linens, endeavored to duplicate his order, which had always been given to a certain Belfast house. The representative of the Belfast concern called on the manager and was offered the customary order at the usual price. On this being promptly declined, the manager began to bid. When he got to 50 per cent advance over last year's figures he stopped and said, "Well, man, what are you going to do? How much will the stuff cost me?" Belfast man begged for time to stop and think. He feared that any order he took would be turned down, but he did not dare to pass up an order as big as the one in question.

He finally said he would accept the offer provisionally, at an advance of 65 per cent over last year's figures the buyer to await confirmation from the mill. To this the buyer demurred, saying he would think it over. The mill man went away, happy in the belief that he had evaded an order which his mill could not, or would not fill without hurting the customer's feelings. In the next morning's mail however, he received a letter from the manager to the effect that he would take the goods at the advance of 65 per cent as provisionally offered. He promptly cabled the order with explanations, to the home office and the order finally went through. But those who know the facts say it was accepted more for the purpose of holding a good customer than for any other reason.

GREY DISCOURAGED SERBS

But Did Not Refuse Permission to Attack Bulgars When Mobilizing

London, Nov. 10.—The statement recently attributed to a member of the Serbian Cabinet that Serbia had asked the Entente Powers in vain for permission to attack Bulgaria before Bulgarian mobilization was complete was followed by a question on this subject in the House of Commons today. The reply disclosed that apparently the attitude of the Allies was one of discouragement of the proposal, but that there was no actual refusal of permission for the attack.

Answering the question, Lord Robert Cecil, Parliamentary Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said in behalf of the Foreign Office that Serbia had pressed this view as the right military policy. The Foreign Office thought it was a matter of Serbia to decide, and, therefore, sent no instructions to the British Minister at Nish. When, on Sept. 27, Serbia pressed for an opinion, the Parliamentary Under Secretary said, Sir Edward Grey replied that all political and diplomatic arguments were against such action, but that he was no judge of strategic considerations. As far as the British Foreign Secretary was concerned, his spokesman declared, there was no question of refusing permission.

NO WORD TO AGENTS

New York Office Seeks Official Aid in Learning of Liner

New York, Nov. 10.—No word of the Ancona came over the cables from Rome today to its general agents here. Officially, they had not even been advised that it had sailed from Naples. To scores of inquiries, many by telegraph from out of town, the agents had to reply that they were absolutely without advices.

After the better part of an anxious day of waiting William Hartfield of the firm representing the Ancona's owners, besought the co-operation of the Italian consul-general here in obtaining facts apparently withheld by Italian censors. The consul general, G. Faranoni, transmitted Mr. Hartfield's request, with an endorsement, by telegraph to the Italian ambassador at Washington. Late today a reply from Washington stated that an effort would be made at once to ascertain the details of the sinking.

Basing their assumption upon a careful study of the passenger list of vessels which reached here during August, September and October from Italian ports, the Ancona's agents were reasonably certain that the vessel had several Americans aboard but that the bulk of the passenger list was composed of Italians and refugees from the near eastern theater of war. Every liner sailing from the Mediterranean during the last three months for this port has had Americans in its cabins. In one case, regarded as exceptional, thirty per cent of the passengers were citizens of the United States.

COACHED BY DAD

Papa Driggs Taught Princeton's Kicker How to Punt.

When Driggs, the Princeton fullback was contesting with Capt. Mahan of Harvard Saturday in Palmer stadium for punting honors, there probably was no more interested spectator than Papa Driggs, special punting instructor for his capable son. Young Driggs gave a fine exhibition of kicking and that he was shaded by Mahan does not in the slightest detract from his reputation or value as a kicker. Driggs is one of the best punters on the gridiron today, and in fact is so good that Princeton banked on him to kick it into a chance for possible points from the victory over the crimson. Papa Driggs had faith in his son, for he had coached him and the son is a good student and can absorb instruction rapidly. Maybe the father will have occasion to rejoice at New Haven this week.

It happened early in the season that when Johnny Rush took up the coaching burden for Princeton for the first time young Driggs was among the regulars carried over from last year. Rush watched Driggs punt and saw the boy was a good kicker. "Who taught you to kick that way?" queried the new coach. "My father did," answered the boy. "Well, I guess the best thing you can do is to tell your father to come right along and give you more pointers." Young Driggs immediately wrote to his father and gave him full details of the flattering conversation with speedy John Rush. The practice season was on. Driggs, Sr., figured it would be worth while to go to Princeton right away and continue his instruction with his son. He arrived on the foot ball field soon and for the greater part of the season has been private punting instructor to his son. Probably nobody but young Driggs has a special coach of his own right from the family.

Driggs, Sr., attended Wesleyan, and according to the Princeton student who told the story just before the start of Saturday's game at Palmer stadium, he was some kicker himself. It is said he attended Wesleyan for two years and enjoyed a fine reputation for his kicking. Anyway, he can coach and that is the main point. He took the son in hand early and the son showed promise as a high school kicker. At Princeton he has made a reputation and should enlarge on it, for he has another year of "varsity" football left and is coming right along. Driggs, in addition to being a good kicker, is also a strong fullback as he demonstrated against the Crimson. But he is out for more punting honors and has one more chance this fall to bring his father up front as a kicking instructor.
